$4.3 Billion Foreign Aid Bill Approved

Kennedy Measure Wins Overwhelming House Group Okay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee today overwhelmingly approved President Kennedy's $4.3 billion foreign aid bill.

The committee took the action shortly after congressional leaders pledged to refuse any compromise on a plan to authorize long-range financing of a development loan program.

The committee voted 27 to 4 to approve the foreign aid bill after the leaders held a breakfast meeting with Kennedy at the White House.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved a similar bill last week. The Senate is expected to begin debating it later today or Wednesday. The House version provides $29 million more than the Senate bill.

Both bills, however, authorize a borrowing program totaling $8.8 billion which would not require additional congressional action for five years.

At the White House and again following his committee's action, House foreign relations chairman Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., vowed "We will accept no compromise this time."

During the meeting with the congressional leaders, Kennedy showed no willingness to compromise for three years, instead of five on his request for the long range borrowing authority. His stand apparently bolstered the leaders' determination.

Sinatra 'Clan' Off to Riviera Stay with JPK

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Frank Sinatra, the Dean Martins, the Peter Lawfords and Janet Leigh will leave this week for a 10-day visit to the French Riviera home of Joseph P. Kennedy, father of President Kennedy.

The invitation was extended by the President's father.

A spokesman for the actors said Sinatra and the Martins were expected to leave for Europe Thursday along with Sammy Davis Jr., who is scheduled to open a lengthy show engagement in London.

The spokesman said Davis would be accompanied by his wife, Swedish actress Mai Britt, who recently gave birth to a daughter.

Lawford also was expected in London this week for a television appearance. Miss Leigh said she would meet his wife, Pat, sister of the President, in New York next Monday and they would leave from there.

Miss Leigh said her husband, Tony Curtis, wasn't going because "he's preparing his next picture, and this gives me time for a 10-day vacation in Europe."

She added that she and Curtis will take a 10-day vacation in South America when she returns.

Berserk Gunman Tries to Seize Big Airliner

OROVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — A pistol-packing midwesterner intent on seizing an airliner went berserk Monday night aboard a DC3 passenger plane at an airport, fired at passengers and crew members and seriously wounded two persons.

Bruce McRae Britt, 40, told authorities after he was subdued that he got the idea of commandeering the plane from reading about the Eastern Air Lines plane which was hijacked by a Cuban July 24.

Britt, of Columbus, Ohio, boarded the Pacific Airlines plane without a ticket as it was about to take off from Chico Airport to San Francisco, 150 miles away. But he panicked while the plane was still on the ground and fired wildly.

It was not clear why he tried to seize the short-hop plane, although Britt said he envisioned the seizure as a first step toward rejoining his wife and daughter in Smackover, Ark.

Meanwhile, officers held Britt for investigation of assault with intent to commit murder.

Officials at Sutter Hospital in Sacramento, where Cleal was taken for surgery, said the pilot emerged from a five-hour operation on his head early today. "It's too soon to tell about his condition," they said.

Politicos Held Too Far Out For Teeners To Dig

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Linda Waite, a cheerleader by trade, has some advice for people in a somewhat related field—politics.

Miss Waite, who leads cheers at Bennington, Vt., High School, says teen-agers don't dig politicians like they ought to, and it's the politicians' fault.

It seems some politicians came to Bennington to try out their pitches on the kids. They "spoke far above our level," said the perky 16-year-old. "We couldn't understand them."

She suggested they revise their campaign talks for teen-age audiences.

Roads Jam As Deadly Ammonia Fumes Loosed

CREVE COEUR, Ill. (UPI) — More than 10,000 residents of four Illinois towns fled their homes before dawn today to escape deadly ammonia fumes pouring from a river barge.

Twenty persons, most of them firemen who tried to stop the flow of gas from a ruptured pipeline aboard the barge, were hospitalized. Four others were treated in nearby Peoria.

Hundreds of dead fish were seen along a stretch of the Illinois River in the immediately affected area and vegetation along the shores was turned a dark brown. Dead insects littered the shoreline, but there were no reports of dead animals.

Most of the refugees had returned to their homes by 8 a.m. Roads leading from Creve Coeur, Bartonville, North Pekin and Marquette Heights were jammed with cars in the pre-dawn darkness.

Police, civil defense workers and volunteers went through the towns house by house to rouse sleeping families and warn them to flee. Sirens wailed and radio stations broadcast evacuation orders.

Half of Creve Coeur's 5,500 population and practically all of the 8,000 Bartonville and 2,000 North Pekin residents fled their homes. Nearly the entire 2,500 population of Marquette Heights joined the exodus, although town officials admitted afterward they had intended to evacuate only a few residents.

Police, firemen, and volunteers, with wet handkerchiefs and towels wrapped across their faces, patrolled deserted streets and roads to prevent looting in a 12-square mile area for three to five hours until residents returned.

At the barge, on the Illinois River, power to the ammonia pump was shut off. But the gas continued to leak out through the compressor. Most of the ammonia in a 300,000 pound tank escaped and was carried south-eastward on a seven mile an hour breeze.

Officials of the Mid-South Chemical Co., owners of the barge, blamed the leakage on a faulty, hose connection leading to storage tanks on shore. Firemen were unable to shut off the leak at the barge and a power shutdown at a remote point was not effected until most of the ammonia had leaked out.

East Germans Get Warnings

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists warned their people they face a polio epidemic and a future as possible slave laborers if they flee to West Germany. But the Reds made no immediate attempts to enforce newly threatened travel controls between East and West Germany.

Under the guise of fighting the spread of polio, the East German Health Ministry Monday night called for unspecified restrictions on travel between the two zones. The announcement did not say when or how the restrictions would be enforced.

Valley Firemen Get Budget Boost But No Equipment

By ELIZABETH NELSON
Desert Sun Correspondent

RIVERSIDE — The Coachella Valley Volunteer Firemen's Assn. won a boost in funds, but failed to get additional equipment they sought in a compromise settlement last night of their budget battle with the County Board of Supervisors.

The supervisors restored $22,500 to the fire protection budget for fiscal 1961-62, bringing the total to $613,280, with the increase to cover the cost of three new buildings. These are a new forestry station at El Cerrito and homes for resident firemen at Cajalco and at Thousand Palms.

Phil Abrams Named to City Engineer Post

Former Public Works Director Phil Abrams has been assigned by City Manager as special engineer consultant for the City of Palm Springs, less than eight weeks after he resigned as city engineer.

Wagner said that he negotiated an agreement with Abrams to take over the task of checking plans and specifications on city jobs until the city hires a regular registered engineer.

Abrams contract was set at $8 an hour and he will work about one day a week.

"He is the natural person to take on this job," said Wagner, "having just left the city's employ, and he does have knowledge of all the city's current projects."

The former director was hired several weeks ago as consulting engineer and project chief on the North Palm Canyon Drive improvement project.

Baker Resigns As Secretary of Community Chest

Robert W. Baker, executive secretary of the Community Chest here since January, has resigned his position to accept assignment in an office of the California State Department of Employment.

The former secretary started work in the Indio employment office this morning.

"We're certainly sorry to lose Baker," Hardin Hart Jr., president of the Community Chest, said. "He's had this application in for sometime and had almost forgotten about it."

Hart said the board of the Community Chest would meet this week to decide on the details of an interim arrangement until a new secretary could be hired.

In a statement to The Desert Sun, Baker stated: "I'm kind of sad about leaving Palm Springs and doubly so about leaving the Chest as I have enjoyed my work so much and the extreme pleasure of knowing and working with so many wonderful people. But, that's fate and one must take advantage of old man opportunity when he comes along."

New Animal Facility Construction Readied

Work will begin this week on the North Indian Avenue site of the new humane shelter, crematorium and pet cemetery to be constructed in late summer by the Humane Society of Palm Springs. Society treasurer Mrs. Betty Wilkie announced.

The facilities, fronted by an 800-square-foot administration and reception building designed by Howard Lapham Design studio, will be located on six acres of land west of Indian Avenue, just south of Dillon Road in North Palm Springs.

The society's application for a county zoning permit for the area was supported by Al Scharf, president of the North Palm Springs Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

Financed by donation of $13,000 plus pledges of $5,000 and offers of subsequent donations, the buildings are expected to be in operation late this summer. One acre of the site was given by Palm Springs businessman Maury Pavy, Mrs. Wilkie said.

Mrs. Wilkie emphasized that the society, in operation 17 months, has cared for "hundreds of dogs and cats."

The animals are offered for adoption, except those believed lost from their owners. Lost pets are held for owners, with some animals cared for several months before out-of-town owners have located them.

The society, which had cared for impounded dogs without compensation, now cares for county pound animals in this area on agreement with the Board of Supervisors.

Mrs. Leathers' claim is itemized as $75,000 for damages for the death of her husband, Paul R. Leathers; $75,000 for personal injuries and $4,550 for damage to her car.

The claim blames "negligence of the county in marking and maintaining marks on the highway" for the crash of the Leathers' vehicle with another driven by E. T. Borrego, who also was fatally injured.

New County School Chief Says Job Still Instruction Guidance

Classroom instruction will continue to be Assistant County Superintendent Leonard Grindstaff's main concern when he moves down the hall this month to take over the Riverside County superintendent of schools office.

He made that clear today when disclosing the design of the new administration. Such developments as regional instructional materials centers to make more encyclopedias, dictionaries, reference books, maps and other supplies accessible to the classrooms will have his full backing, he said. He cited the Coachella Valley materials center now being developed by the county office as an example.

Teachers are in greater need of materials, he noted, than they are of advice and supervision. He indicated that he contemplates recommending to the board no expansion of the office's professional staff.

Named Monday

The County Board of Supervisors named Dr. Grindstaff as the new county superintendent Monday following the County Board of Education's designating him the best qualified among five candidates it had interviewed for the position.

Dr. Grindstaff will succeed Superintendent Ray W. Johnson this month. He will become acting superintendent on August 14 and will officially become superintendent on Sept. 1. He said his way of handling his new job would be guided by the view that the county superintendent's office is a service agency.

"It will be our aim to help every teacher and administrator get the materials and assistance they need in carrying out their own districts' goals. We won't be presenting ourselves as Jeremiahs to tell them what to believe," Grindstaff declared.

Reading Vital

Of all the school's expanding tasks, he said, teaching children to read is still the most important. He said this and the other fundamentals would have top priority among the service functions of his office.

Assisting the districts in their efforts to recruit top teachers and to maintain stimulating in-service programs also will have high priority, he said.

Dr. Grindstaff, 50, was a classroom teacher for five years, following which he held a variety of district and county school administrative posts for 22 years.

He received his doctor's degree at Stanford University.

Since coming to Riverside County six years ago, he has served in the United Fund drives and has been a Riverside First Methodist Church School superintendent and chairman of the church's leadership training committee.

Pair of Convicts Hold 5 Hostages at Knifepoint

KINGSTON, Ont. (UPI)—Two "hard case" convicts held five hostages at knifepoint in a kitchen in the 1,000-prisoner Kingston Penitentiary today while officials tried to talk them into surrendering.

Warden David McLean said he would "sit it out" until the two convicts from the solitary confinement block gave themselves up. At 10 a.m. EDT the revolt had been going on for more than 19 hours.

The convicts bolted from the prison exercise yard at 2:40 p.m. EDT Monday and ran into the kitchen where they grabbed knives and tied up two stewards, two guards and a bookkeeper.

Guards cordoned off the kitchen premises.

The two convicts were not identified. Officials said the men had a radio and they feared for the safety of the hostages if the men heard their names broadcast.

Tear gas could not be used because one of the hostages suffers from a heart condition and doctors said tear gas would kill him.

The hostages were tentatively identified as bookkeeper George Good, stewards S. H. Byszewski and J. Dobson, and guards J. Robin and Ed Nicholson. Nicholson is a former American Hockey League player.

The warden said he was trying to outwit the prisoners hoping they would soon collapse from lack of sleep.

Insurance Law Amended Data Given by Official

Some 3,000 farmer-employers in Riverside County, as well as many other employers of agricultural labor served by the Riverside Audit District Office of the state Department of Employment will be affected by a 1961 amendment to the California Unemployment Insurance Code which extends disability insurance and hospital benefit coverage to agricultural workers.

William W. Webster, Riverside auditor in charge, said he will provide detailed information to individual farmers on request to assist them in determining their status under the new law.

Interested parties should contact Webster at the office at 3561 Fifth St., Riverside.

Gagarin Gets 'Go Home' Signs

MIAMI (UPI)—The array of banners that greeted Soviet space man Yuri Gagarin on his recent visit to Havana included some inscribed in Russian, "Russians, Go Home," travelers arriving from Cuba said today.

The travelers said the anti-Russian posters, planted among greeting banners by foes of Premier Fidel Castro, escaped the notice of the militiamen posting them because they could not read the words they bore—"Russki Von Damoi."

The first Russian to see one of the banners protested, and they were promptly taken down.

Parolee Held In Stabbing Try Of Sis-In-Law

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Police today held parolee Samuel Brown, 38, on charges he tried to stab his sister-in-law who worked 12 years to secure his release from prison.

Brown was arrested Monday night in his room in the Golden West Hotel.

Police said he tried to stab Mrs. Virginia Murphy, 30, San Diego, Sunday morning after watching a prison story on television.

Mrs. Murphy, who formerly was married to Brown's brother, Daniel, who vanished five years ago, said she awoke to find the parolee trying to stab her with a butcher knife.

She told officers she quieted him down, and he told her he needed a woman's love. She then looked in on her sleeping child. When she returned to the living room, the parolee grabbed her around the neck and tried to stab her again.

A neighbor heard Mrs. Murphy scream and came to her rescue.

Police said Mrs. Murphy told them she does not want to see Brown returned to prison.

Trio Hospitalized in Arizona as Bubonic Plague Scare Held False

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Three members of the United States Geological Survey were hospitalized Monday night following a report they might have been exposed to bubonic plague. But medical authorities said subsequent information tended to indicate bubonic plague was not involved.

The three men had attended a water resources conference in Santa Fe, N.M., several weeks ago.

David Dawdy, Geological Survey official here, said his office received a report that another person at the conference had died of bubonic plague in Boston, Mass.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette, Massachusetts health commissioner, said today in Boston he was virtually certain that bubonic plague was not involved.

Frechette said extensive tests showed that Dr. John P. Miller, 38, a Harvard University scientist who had recently returned from New Mexico, died of hemolytic streptococcus poisoning, a blood infection.

It was not immediately confirmed whether Miller was in close contact with the three survey officials nor was there any suggestion where Miller's illness was acquired.

As a precaution, police and aircraft searched northeastern Arizona and southern Colorado to locate the three survey officials.

Dawdy said Robert Myrick and Peter Sparks, both believed to be from Washington, were located at Chinle, Ariz., on a Navajo Indian reservation. He said Dr. Luna Leopold, the survey's chief hydrologic engineer, was located in Colorado. They entered hospitals for observation.

Legal Wall Sought For 5 Defendants After Bombings

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—State Atty. Gen. Anne X. Alpern, prompted by the gangland-style killing of two brothers in less than a year, hopes to set up a legal wall of protection around five defendants in a $478,000 burglary case.

The move to seek protective custody was ordered in the interest of the defendants and the public.

"We cannot endanger the lives of the people by ignoring the gangster tactics which have resulted in death and terror in this case," Mrs. Alpern said.

The five defendants include sultry Lillian Reis, owner of a Philadelphia night club, who has been described by police as the mastermind of the safe-cracking at the home of coal baron John B. Rich two years ago.

Among the others are Robert Poulson, Philadelphia; Ralph Stano Jr., floor manager of Miss Reis' club, and John C. Berkery, Haddon Township, N.J.

The three men were convicted during two trials last spring, largely on the testimony of Richard Blaney, Philadelphia ex-convict, who also was to appear against Miss Reis at her trial in September and against the fifth suspect, Clyde (Bing) Miller, Forked River, N.J.

Blaney was blown apart by a bomb on his 27th birthday last Thursday when he turned on the ignition of his booby trapped automobile.

His death came 11 months after his brother, Vincent, 28, a suspect in the burglary, was shot in the head, trussed in chains and dumped into the Atlantic Ocean off Margate, N.J. Police said Vincent was slain in reprisal for co-operating with investigators.

Both murders still are under investigation.

Planners Will Study Tahquitz-McCallum Way

An old dispute may be rekindled Wednesday when the Planning Commission meets in the Council Chambers at 2 p.m. Among other items, the planners will take up the street name of Tahquitz Drive and McCallum Way.

At present the street is called Tahquitz as far east as Sunrise Way and McCallum Way after that. This arrangement resulted from a compromise when the street was constructed in 1939-60.

Now, City Building Inspector Jack Sanders has asked that the item be included on the commission's agenda. He proposed that to avoid confusion the entire street be named Tahquitz-McCallum. He told The Desert Sun that he thinks this would stabilize the compromise.

Another item to be taken up by the planners is a request by the City Planning Department for a recommendation concerning plans and general location of the proposed Department of Motor Vehicles building in the civic center.

A request by the California Water and Telephone Co. for architectural approval to construct a one story building to house telephone dial equipment in an R-2 (residential) zone on the southwest corner of Sunrise Way and Amado Road will be heard.

The planners will also hear requests by the Desert Hand Laundry and Southridge, Inc. for architectural approvals. In the latter case, two split-level houses are proposed in the new hillside Southridge Estates.

A review of revised parking plans of Nicholas Farrah's proposed new restaurant at 368 N. Palm Canyon Dr. will be undertaken at the meeting and the planners also hope to determine the location of a car rental agency in a C-2 zone.

Finally, the busy planners will consider a minute order from the City Council requesting a study on setbacks for homes on the fairways of local golf courses.

Paris Explosion Rips Gene Kelly Auto to Pieces

PARIS (UPI) — An early morning explosion today in the quiet west suburb of Boulogne ripped apart a brand new sedan owned by Hollywood singer-dancer and movie director Gene Kelly.

Kelly, presently staying in the French capital to direct "Gigot," a film Jackie Gleason is making aimed at a local tramp, had ordered his chauffeur to park the shiny black car outside his apartment in Boulogne.

Police said the blast apparently came from a charge of explosive aimed at a house nearby. They said it might have been caused by puttylike plastic explosive frequently used by French rightwing extremists to agitate for the "keep Algeria French" cause.

VOICE OF THE DESERT EMPIRE

Britons Divided Over Switch to Common Market

LONDON (UPI) — Britons divided today over their government's decision to forego its Commonwealth traditions and seek its economic — and possibly political — future on the continent of Europe.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's announcement Monday that Britain will negotiate for full membership in the European Common Market triggered a storm of official and press reaction.

The opposition Labor party called a special meeting today to form an official policy and observers predicted it would abstain from any vote on the ground application does not mean automatic membership.

Parliament will debate Macmillan's motion Wednesday and Thursday, with a vote expected Thursday. However, formal negotiations were not expected to begin until October.

Voice Approval

The Common Market nations—France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — and Britain's partners in the rival European Free Trade Area (EFTA) reacted favorably to the announcement.

The other EFTA nations — Austria, Denmark, Portugal, Sweden, Norway and Switzerland — even announced that they would follow Britain if she becomes a full member of the Common Market.

But the response within Britain was far from unanimous.

Anthony Fell, a member of parliament from the prime minister's own Conservative party, denounced Macmillan as a "national disaster."

That sentiment was echoed today by two opposite poles of British journalism — the conservative Daily Express and the Communist Daily Worker.

The Express condemned Macmillan for "putting Europe ahead of the Commonwealth" and expressed fears that parliament would become "a subordinate assembly" to a supranational European legislature.

The Worker labeled the Common Market "a Big Business grouping...determined to keep the cold war going" and said negotiations "would mean a further surrender of Britain's sovereignty." In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass blamed the United States for forcing Britain into the Common Market to "undermine Britain's sovereignty."

Macmillan promised to seek "satisfactory arrangements" as a condition to joining the Common Market to avoid disrupting Britain's ties with the Commonwealth.

Duggan Calls Chicago Police Capone Group

CHICAGO (UPI) — Los Angeles television entertainer Tam Duggan sent word Monday that he wouldn't surrender to Chicago Police because he believes they are "dominated by the Capone syndicate."

"Detention by such police would constitute a threat upon my life," Duggan said in a telegram to his Chicago attorney, Sol R. Friedman.

Duggan was scheduled to fly from Los Angeles to Chicago today, surrender to Chicago authorities, and then seek a writ of habeas corpus in Federal Court demanding his freedom.

Duggan is fighting a sentence of 10 days in prison and a $100 fine imposed in 1955 by Chicago Judge Daniel A. Covel. Covel sentenced Duggan on contempt of court charges for statements the TV personality, then appearing in Chicago, made during a child custody case.

Duggan had planned to come to Chicago in hopes that he could appear in summer stock production without being forced to serve the prison term.

Moon Returns From Seattle Club Meeting

CATHEDRAL CITY — Warner S. Moon, 38-355 Vista Dr., has arrived back from Seattle where he represented the Palm Springs Toastmasters Club at the 30th annual convention of Toastmasters International.

The local man was among more than 1,000 delegates from every state of the Union and several foreign countries who met July 27-29 to discuss the art of public speaking and parliamentary procedure.

The Palm Springs chapter of the organization meets every first and third Thursdays of the month at 7 p.m. at Laurey's Steak Ranch. Anyone desiring experience in public speaking is welcome to attend the meetings, Moon said.

Medical Care Benefits Told

An estimated 21,300 Riverside County residents receiving Social Security benefits would be eligible for federal medical care benefits under the "aid to the aged" bill now pending in Congress, the California Taxpayer's Assn. said today.

Almost 900,000 current recipients of Social Security benefits in California as a whole would benefit from the legislation, if passed, S. J. Arnold, general manager of the association, pointed out.

Nevada Defense Against Southland Refugees Denied

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—Local civil defense officials have refused an official's statement implying Southern Californians trying to enter Nevada in the event of a nuclear attack would be repulsed by a militia.

"Southern Nevada is preparing for the care and aid in evacuation of California refugees in case of a disaster instead of barring them from the state," the officials said in a statement following an emergency meeting.

They said they were "very perturbed" by the statements last week of J. Carlton Adair, plans and programs officer of the Greater Las Vegas Civil Defense Agency. Adair told a civil defense luncheon that "a million or more persons might stream into this area from Southern California" in the event of nuclear war. He said plans had been "drawn up for a militia."

Home State Brings On Novelist Ambitions

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Each time that I go back to my native state of Texas, I experience a curious sort of brain seizure that causes me to fancy that I am on the verge of writing the great American novel.

When an attack first hits me, I stagger over to the nearest typewriter and bat out several reams of what seems at the moment to be sure-fire best-seller fiction.

This week, for instance, I returned from a vacation trip to the cow country bearing a manuscript I had put together under the illusion that I was walking in the footsteps of Edna Ferber.

It was Miss Ferber, you'll recall, who authored an opus of life in the Lone Star State called "Giant." In doing so, she endeared herself to Texans in the way that Gen. Sherman endeared himself to Georgians.

Takes Different Approach

The novel that I started to write during my vacation was patterned after the Ferber book, but it took a somewhat different approach to Texas. I called it "Pigmy."

In essence, "Pigmy" was to be the life story of Nismo J. Circling, a native Texan who was born with a monumental character defect. He didn't like to brag.

"What's the matter with you, son?" little Nismo's mother said to him when, as a child, he began to behave with unbecoming modesty. "Are you sick, or something?"

"No, mother," he replied, shamefaced. "I feel okay. It's just that I don't see much around here to brag about."

Nismo's parents immediately took him to Dallas to have his eyes examined. His vision was 20-20. Then they took him to Houston to have his head examined. But nothing could be done.

Nismo was pathologically unboastful.

As he grew older, Nismo began to develop other traits that gave his parents concern. This time they took him to San Antonio to be examined. That was when they discovered to their horror that he was allergic to beefsteak.

By the time that Nismo reached adolescence, he was a total failure as a Texan. He didn't even care about becoming a millionaire.

"Why don't you go out and discover an oil field like the rest of the boys?" his anxious father would say.

"I guess it's because I don't like to be around oil," Nismo would reply.

"And why not, pray tell?"

"It's too oily," Nismo would explain.

In manhood, Nismo was virtually an outcast. While driving, he seldom exceeded the speed limit and his car didn't even have air conditioning. The crowning blow to his friends and relatives came when he married a girl who had never heard of Neiman-Marcus.

That was as far as I got in my novel. Time ran out and I had to return to Washington.

Back here in the East, with a bit more shade on my brow, I can see, upon reading over the manuscript, that I was deluding myself while in Texas. The brain seizure that I thought was inspiration was merely sunstroke.

Police Chief Ousted Over 'Speed Trap'

WESTMORLAND (UPI)— This Imperial Valley town's police force was at half strength today because the city council fired Police Chief Melvin McGill, who promptly said he had been ousted because he refused to set up a "speed trap."

Councilmen voted in secret session Monday to fire McGill, who had been chief for three of his four years on the local two-man force. The other town policeman, Jesus H. Celaya, was appointed acting chief.

After the meeting councilmen said they fired McGill because he wrote only 18 traffic citations last year although, they said, citizens complained several times about violators.

McGill, whose duties as chief included serving as a utility man, school crossing guard, lifeguard, recreation director and dogcatcher, said Mayor James Harvey wanted to engage in "legalized robbery" in having him write more tickets in order to increase the town's revenue.

The council's stated reason for dismissing McGill was "insubordination." The chief's "accusations and public statements can be taken as insubordination," a statement issued by the council said.

Jury Trial For Rooster

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI)— A solid gold rooster gets a full jury trial Oct. 2 to determine whether it is a work of art.

The rooster was lifted from its coop in the Sparks Nugget Casino because it contained 225 ounces of solid gold. The U. S. government allows its citizens no more than 50 ounces of metal under the gold reserve act of 1934.

Owner Dick Graves says the rooster is a work of art and as such is exempt from the act.

To decide the question, attorney Paul Laxalt has asked for a full jury trial for the bird. U.S. District Judge Sherill Halbert will preside.

1,000-Year-Old Skeleton Found

NAHANT, Mass. (UPI) — A skeleton that appears to be 1,000 years old has been found in an Indian burial ground uncovered in a yard.

Dr. Gustav A. Konitzky, a Boston University archaeologist, found the burial ground Sunday and described it as the "most important" discovery in Massachusetts in several years.

Fragments of Indian pottery found within two inches of the skeleton were representative of the "early woodland" civilization of more than 1,000 years ago, Konitzky said.

Here's how Southern Pacific feels about the future...in 1961 we are spending over for new railroad cars, locomotives and trucks!

Southern Pacific is spending $51,500,000 this year to buy railroad cars, locomotives and highway freight vehicles—nearly 3,400 units in all. Over half of this tremendous order has already been received. Deliveries have been speeded to stimulate the general economy quickly through this large expenditure.

This latest step in our continuing program to provide better and more efficient transportation service shows how we feel about the future. We think it is proof, too, of our purpose to always go forward and not just "wait and see."

This $51,500,000 is for rolling stock only—to meet the growing needs of industry and agriculture now and in the coming months. We are spending more millions in 1961 for other improvements and for property being developed to attract new industries.

These 1961 purchases, further augmenting Southern Pacific's 85,000-car freight fleet, include the following:

2,233 FREIGHT CARS, of the most modern types, including special cars for S.P.'s fast-growing Piggyback service...plus 275 multi-level rack carriers for new automobiles.

Also, 109 PASSENGER TRAIN CARS, including nine streamlined Chair Cars, and 246 HIGHWAY VEHICLES for S.P.'s extensive trucking service.

34 DIESEL LOCOMOTIVES, including three of a unique experimental type.

Actor Steven Boyd In 'Foreign Service'

By VERNON SCOTT

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Actor Steve Boyd recently bought a new home in Hollywood, but he should have invested in a new suitcase.

The handsome young Irishman has made six movies since he established himself in Hollywood—and four of them have been made in foreign countries.

Currently starring in 20th Century-Fox's "The Inspector" here, he also lived in Rome for "Ben-Hur," Mexico for "The Bravados," Paris for "The Big Gamble" and Canada for "Woman Obsessed."

Additionally, he has worked in Africa, Spain, England and Scotland.

As far as Boyd is concerned locations are for the "birds." "It's a hardship for actors to work in foreign countries," Steve complained. "You lose the professional atmosphere of Hollywood."

"Hollywood is the only picture center where circumstances are normal and professional. Studio crews and technicians are completely efficient in every respect."

No Postcards, Please

Steve downed a martini in a colorful Dutch restaurant alongside one of the city's many canals. It was a picture postcard setting, but Steve was unimpressed.

"I don't like living in hotels and other problems on location," he said.

"There is always the language barrier with the crews. And foreign directors and crewmen are interested in making a picture that will make their country look good. In Hollywood all pictures are made with the world market in mind."

"Another thing, when a plane flies overhead in Hollywood you don't bother to look up. Over here it's liable to be a Russian bomber loaded for business."

"There are the distractions. Most countries have interesting customs, landmarks and characters who take your mind off your work."

"Take the canals here in Amsterdam. In the middle of a scene you begin watching a boat or a windmill and the next thing you know you've forgotten your lines. Sometimes it is impossible to concentrate on what you're doing."

Boyd, a bachelor, also finds foreign beauties distracting. But he has the same problems back home.

Maybe Next Time

"Most American films can and should be made in Hollywood," he continued. "Southern California has ocean, mountains, deserts and a big city that can absorb most American backgrounds."

"But I guess it is impossible to capture the feeling of Holland or England out there, so it's a matter of living out of a suitcase in different parts of the world."

"Become an actor and see the world is the new slogan."

Boyd spent several months in England earlier this year awaiting the start of the ill-fated "Cleopatra."

The picture was temporarily shelved and will be shot later this summer in Italy and Egypt. This time, however, it will roll without Steve. His part was filled by Richard Burton.

"I'm not upset about that," Steve said with relief. "Maybe my next movie will be made entirely in Hollywood. And, boy, am I looking forward to that."

Air Lines Now Looking To U.S. Motorist

By JESSE BOGUE

UPI Financial Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The men whose job it is to keep the nation's trunk air lines "in the black" are looking to the motorist for a good chunk of their future market, Stuart G. Tipton believes.

Tipton, 50, balding, blue-eyed Indiana-born lawyer, has been president of the Air Transport Association of America, with headquarters in Washington, since 1955. Among the numerous concerns of his office is the balance sheets and return to stockholders which the domestic trunk airlines show each year.

This is so, Tipton said on a trip to New York, because the air lines must remain financially healthy to do their job.

He told a congressional committee in May, and will tell anyone who wants to talk about it, that the earnings of the trunk lines, the big ones flying between major centers of population, are substandard. In 1960, his figures said, they realized a net profit after taxes of $1,188,000—a profit margin, he said, of barely six one-hundredths of one per cent on gross revenues of almost $2 billion.

To keep the revenues and passenger-mile figures rising, they have to make sure that in an expanding population they find more persons to ride planes. Where?

"Everyone knows that we will have to continue a higher rate of growth," said Tipton.

"And we'll have to seek it somewhere in the 660 million miles of private automobile, interstate, travel."

"Auto traffic is the target. It has to be the basic field for the expansion of our industry."

"Part of the job is going to be to convince families of the range, time and comfort factors of airline travel."

FOREIGN COMMENTARY

France-Tunisia Position Compared to Earlier Tiff

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst

The current position of the United States between France and Tunisia on the issue of Bizerte bears certain resemblances to a state of affairs existing in late October and early November of 1956.

On Oct. 31, 1956, French and British bombers began attacking Egypt in the first phase of a campaign to recapture the nationalized Suez Canal.

The attack came as an unpleasant surprise to the United States, which made no secret of its irritation over the fact that its two most important European allies would plan such an operation behind its back. The United States immediately disavowed any part in it.

On Nov. 5, Soviet notes arrived in Washington, London and Paris. The notes to London and Paris were menacing.

On Nov. 6, Britain and France ordered a cease-fire in Egypt. For them it had been a debacle, and the United States' attitude had been the decisive factor. Reaction again was bitter.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau attacked U. S. support of President Abdel Gamal Nasser of Egypt but added significantly:

"Whatever our bitterness, we cannot renounce American friendship or the Atlantic Alliance, which is our only safeguard against sharing the fate of Hungary."

How the British and French governments would have reacted under a Macmillan or a de Gaulle can only be a matter of speculation.

But it is certain that the then British prime minister, Anthony Eden, already was an ill man. France was going through the series of government downfalls which eventually led to emergence of de Gaulle.

Today, in another conflict involving the Mediterranean and the Moslem world, both France and Tunisia demand U. S. support.

There is another similarity. At the time of the Suez conflict France drew nine-tenths of its oil from the Middle East through the Suez Canal. Today, a pipeline from the French Sahara fields carries French oil through Tunisia. It is part of the grand industrial complex planned by De Gaulle to embrace Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

As for President Bourguiba who temporized on Bizerte in order to get French troops out of the remainder of Tunisia in 1958, his timing was off. He threatens now to abandon the West and go all out for pan-Arabism. For his change, he blames the United States.

Producer Decides Mowing Down Of Girls OK--If Can Get Away With

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Television producers are like anyone else. They get tired of the same old thing, week after week.

Take Quinn Martin for instance, the original executive producer of "The Untouchables." According to a memo read before the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee, it seems that Martin got tired of people getting run over by cars all the time.

"I like sadism," his memo assured an assistant, "but I hope we can come up with another approach to it."

Apparently they did. They came up with a scene in which a gang of Chicago hoodlums massacred a gaggle of prostitutes with machine gun fire.

"This scene is the roughest I have ever seen," said another memo from Martin. "I don't know whether we can get away with it but let's leave it in."

But Martin apparently thought the zest for variety may have been carried too far. "Have a feeling you may have to kill the

State Office Reports First Half Job Rate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—California employment averaged a record 6,002,000 during the first six months of 1961, but was only one-half of one per cent above the same period of 1960, the state Department of Employment said today.

The agency said that only industries allied with population growth showed measurable increases in the first half of the year.

These included all levels of government, up 4.3 per cent; service employment up 3.9 per cent; finance, real estate and insurance up 3.2 per cent; and trade employment up 1.1 per cent.

Unemployment during the period averaged 505,000 a month, 7.8 per cent of the work force, compared to 5.9 per cent last year.

The department noted that since February unemployment has slowly improved, but June unemployment was still the highest for any June since 1950.

CATHEDRAL CITY

Community Church Names New Officers

While enjoying a weekend in Carpinteria as guests of the Senior Youth Group of the Community Church, members of the Senior Youth Group of the Cathedral City Community Church elected their officers for the year ahead.

With their advisors Mr. and Mrs. Robert Howe the group left Cathedral City Friday evening and returned late Sunday night.

Saturday they spent at the beach with swimming and a cook-out. Sunday morning they had breakfast with their hosts and attended church together. Leaving around noon they enjoyed sightseeing in Santa Barbara and along the scenic coast Highway, stopping in Los Angeles for dinner.

Newly elected officers are: Lee Lamb moderator, Chuck Howe vice moderator, Valerie Howe recording clerk and Linda Lake program area chairman. Other members enjoying the interesting weekend were Janis Lamb, Christine Sharp, Jeanette Lake and Jo Ellis. Several months ago the Carpinteria group spent the week end in Cathedral City.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pepper and children Barbara, Jane and James returned by plane to their home in Westbury, Long Island, N. Y., following a three-week visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Maxwell. It was their first visit together since Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell came to California eight years ago.

Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Zappe (he is deputy district governor of Lions Club District 4L4) and their boys, Dwayne and Steven, drove to Mission Valley for the 4L4 District meeting held at the Town and Country Hotel. Also representing the Cathedral Lions Club were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wood (he is a past deputy district governor and a member of the board) and their son Richard.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Hagen and their son Jim were in Long Beach to bid "Bon Voyage" to their friend Kathleen Bray who is a passenger on the maiden voyage of the liner Cambera. The ship left Sunday afternoon for the Hawaiian Islands and Australia. Miss Bray, who is on a sabbatical leave from her school in San Francisco, will leave the ship in Australia for the first stop on her year's tour of the world. The Hagens enjoyed the pre-sailing activities and a tour of the interestingly appointed Cambera.

A two-week vacation ended for Mr. and Mrs. Don Frank when they returned home by train last Sunday night. They drove with their daughter, Mrs. Don Bollinger, to Warrenton, Va., where she joined her husband, who is with the armed forces. They found the Civil War Centennial, now being observed, most interesting. They visited his relatives in his home town near Milwaukee, Wis., for the first time in 30 years and also made a trip to her home town, Vandalia, Ill.

Beauty of Palm Springs Prompts Poolside Party

"Just because it is so beautiful in Palm Springs," Mrs. Marye Brooks, of Sherman Oaks, who's been visiting Andee Palms for the past month, hosted a progressive cocktail-buffet.

Stock, snapdragons and an assortment of colorful flowers decorated the three bungalows, from which various courses were served.

Italian meats, pickles and cheeses served with cocktails perked up appetites for an entree of Italian spaghetti, barbecued chicken, Italian salad and garlic toast.

For dessert, a large-enough-for-20 angel food cake was topped with fresh fruit and served with exotic imported cheeses.

In true Italian spirit, appropriate wines complemented the menu.

Following dinner, guests gathered poolside to enjoy the balmy breezes, waiting under an almost full moon. While some out-of-towners exclaimed about Palm Springs' paradise-weather, others tried out their water wings.

Enchanting to other guests was 9-year-old partygoer, Christy Lynn, who arrived with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. George A. Thompson of Beverly Hills. Christy is a performer with quite an impressive background.

Last season, she appeared in "Showboat," during its run at the Los Angeles Biltmore. Her television credits include appearances on "Day in Court," "Faith of Our Children," and a commercial, which she made in Canada.

She is a proficient, rock and roll, charleston and beatnik dancer and "digs" Elvis and Fabian "the most."

For the evening, however, she seemed content to shower her attentions on 12-year-old David Laing, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Laing of Los Angeles.

Other guests present, who were thoroughly convinced that their hostess had sand in her shoes, were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slater of Beverly Hills; the Albert and Ernest Martins of Tarzana; Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons of Encino; and John P. McGinley of Palm Springs.

WOMEN of The Desert

Edited by Sue Raymond

Let the Men Cook!

Women all over the country now have an official excuse to leave the kitchen and cooking to their husbands, the Second Annual Men's National Cooking Championship.

Homemakers are gladly turning over their aprons and cooking utensils to their "better halves," encouraging them to create wonderful new recipes which might win a free trip for them to the West Coast next winter.

To compete in the nationwide competition, men must submit recipes for an original main dish using potato chips as an ingredient. They can submit as many as they wish. Recipes should be mailed to the Men's National Cooking Championship, 12 East 41st Street, New York 17, N. Y., before December 15, 1961.

"Both married and single men can enter the championship," Harvey F. Noss, executive vice president of Potato Chip Institute International, sponsor of the Championship, said. However, wives are not allowed to submit recipes in their husbands' names and professional chefs cannot compete. This is strictly for amateurs. All who entered last year's championship are welcome to try again.

Prizes
A week's free vacation for two in Los Angeles will be awarded to the top recipe in each of four geographical regions of the nation plus the privilege of competing for the title. A $1,000 grand prize, in addition to being crowned Men's National Cooking Champion, goes to the winner. Additional cash awards will be given to the three runners-up.

Women Experts Judge
Recipes will be judged for taste and imagination by women food experts. The best recipe for each state will be named State Champion, which automatically becomes eligible to compete for a Regional Championship.

The four Regional Champions will then win a free week's vacation for two at the famous Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, California, near renowned Hollywood stars' homes, Disneyland and other fabulous attractions. The four finalists then will prepare their recipes in Los Angeles under actual kitchen conditions, using brand new stoves, utensils and other necessities. The completed dishes will be taste-tested and judged by women food experts.

Current Champion

The current champion, Bernard L. Troup, an electronics specialist with the Army Ballistics Missiles Agency in Huntsville, Alabama, prepared the winning recipe, Potato Chip Lasagna. Mr. Troup represented the South in the 1961 competition.

The three runners-up, representing the North, East and West were: Dr. Henry Bornheimer, Mamaronock, N. Y., for his Crunchy-Chip Chicken; merchant Art Butler, Scottsdale, Arizona, for Scallop Scottsdale; and Reverend Armin G. Weng, Jr., Lena, Ill., for Corned Beef and Chip Casserole.

Varied Dishes

The four winning recipes were selected from thousands submitted during the Championship competition. These ranged from "Pagoda Pancakes" to "Tamale Pie" and "Fire Chief's One Dish Meal." In fact, the potato chip main dish recipes included virtually every type of entree possible, and the men exhibited a marked degree of originality and imagination in their creations.

"Judges last year had a most difficult task of screening the recipes, there were so many excellent ones," Mr. Noss said. They offered their compliments to the nation's male amateur chefs, and expressed their delighted surprise in discovering the varied fare and skilled dishes offered up for their consideration.

Television In Review

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UPI)—The history books tell us that NBC-TV's mid-night mish-mosh, "The Jack Paar Show," began its fifth year last night. Don't believe them.

According to my diligent research staff, the Paar show has just gone into its 360th season. It seems that Paar's format was spelled out in remarkable detail in a play called "Hamlet," written by a show-packager named Will Shakespeare and first published on July 26 1602.

The connection between "Hamlet" and Paar explains why Paar, the 20th-century Hamlet of humor, has become known for his intense soliloquies and the public unravelling of his innermost thoughts. My researchers believe Paar, in studying "Hamlet," derived from it messages that no other reader could grasp. And all he has done is put Shakespeare's format into action.

Example: What is Paar's nightly procession of actors, comedians and glamor girls but the materialization of Hamlet's prediction that, "he that plays the King shall be welcome (Alex King, of course) . . . the humorous man shall end his part in peace, the clown shall make those laugh . . . and the lady shall say her mind freely."

In suggesting an approach to double-entendre, Shakespeare told Paar, "Good Hamlet, cast thy nighted color off."

Management Shares Blame

Irresponsible action of labor unions in delaying America's missile program through strikes, walkouts and absurd rules is almost beyond belief.

The extent of this slow-down in vital defense work is reviewed in detail in a Reader's Digest report entitled "The Scandal of Our Missile Program." It was written by Kenneth O. Gilmore, a reporter who covered the McClellan subcommittee hearings. He followed-up by talking with government officials, labor leaders, industrialists and workers all across the nation.

His findings reveal one of the sorriest chapters of self-serving in American history—as he puts it. Graft, greed and extortion in connection with the missile program have cost the American taxpayers uncounted millions—not to mention the damage that has been done to our missile development program.

For Example: Bases and test sites have been beset by 330 strikes and walkouts in the past five years. Deliberate policies of low-productivity on the part of some unions were uncovered; there has been featherbedding, wildcat strikes and all sorts of work stoppages.

True, but hard to believe: Pipefitters, electricians and asbestos workers at one plant walked off the job because they wanted to make their own coffee.

Technicians performing a necessary job at Florida's Cape Canaveral base unhooked some 1000 wires in a blockhouse. The next day craft-union electricians claimed it was rightfully their work and demanded that the wires be reattached. This done, the craft workers unhooked the wires again—for which they were paid $3.50 an hour.

Management must share some of the responsibility, too. Since Uncle Sam foots the bill, some companies closed their eyes to featherbedding and slow-downs; gave in to demands of labor bosses no matter how unreasonable. Management in many cases agreed to almost anything to avoid strikes and walk-outs.

These are not isolated cases; it happened time and time again in base after base. It is a sickening story of union practices in their worst light.

Exposure by the McClellan subcommittee has helped put a stop to some such practices and wildcat strikes. But the money has been lost—and so has valuable time in getting on with the missile program.

Such disregard of national interest and security by elements of both labor and management should awaken our political leaders, from the President on down, to the need for a closer look at procurement practices. If they take the trouble to find it—the elimination of waste in government-financed programs would go a long way toward paying the cost of stepped-up defense and military programs.

(Wall Street Journal)

New York City, we see by the papers, has just raised the maximum income limit which entitles a family to have better housing at public expense.

Formerly, Federally subsidized housing developments there were open only to families whose maximum income was $5,712, or in the case of childless couples, $4,320. This brought on a great hue and cry from civic groups who contended that it did not meet the needs of many people who had larger incomes but still could not "afford" to pay for the housing they ought to have.

One little difficulty, for example, was the problem of the family that started out well below the dividing line but then unfortunately prospered. A young married couple that happily boosted its income to $4,500 either had to start raising a family or be technically ineligible to have part of their rent paid from the public till. And even a family man could get the shivers at the thought of a raise to $8,000.

Now there was the unfairness of it all. Why should a family earning $3,700 be entitled to live in Government housing while an equally deserving family earning $5,800 was forced to pay their own rent?

Now all this has been eased. Henceforward the right to a Federal housing subsidy for New Yorkers extends to couples earning $5,120; a little more prosperity won't force them into planned parenthood. And for larger families the dividing line between subsidy and self-reliance will be put at $8,112 per annum.

Only the flint-hearted will object. And maybe a few old-fashioned families who earn less and not only pay their own rent, but taxes also to pay part of the rent for others. They, as we all know, are eligible to have part of their rent paid from the public till. And even a family man could get the shivers at the thought of a raise to $8,000.

Impressions of Cuba

Dear Abby . . .

. . . by Abigail VanBuren

DEAR ABBY: This is not a personal problem, but a public one. What do you think should be done about the present trend of make-up and attire for our adolescent girls? I refer to girls from 14 to 18, who come from good families, but go around looking like streetwalkers. They load on the make-up and wear their hair in sophisticated styles to make themselves look older. And their clothes are disgustingly tight and short. Or they are half-naked. Don't you think the Law should step in, since this kind of appearance appeals to the baser instincts of man and increases the crime rate?

MRS. CITIZEN
DEAR CITIZEN: Unless these girls sneak out of their homes in such get-ups, the blame should be placed squarely on the shoulders of their mothers who, in their well-meaning eagerness to make their daughters "popular" and "happy," encourage them to appear 20 when they are only 15. This is a matter for parental discipline, not law.

DEAR ABBY: This may seem crazy to you, but it hurts me very much. My husband keeps telling me about the many love affairs he had with other girls before he met me. I think the past should be forgotten, but I would like to teach him a lesson. I don't have any past to talk about, but do you think if I made up a few stories as good as his it would shut him up?

NO PAST
DEAR NO: Men who were really successful with the ladies do not feel the need to boast about it. Tell your husband you rather not hear about his escapades, and don't make up any whooppers as toppers.

DEAR ABBY: What, exactly, does it mean when a girl wears a boy's school ring on the third finger of her right hand?

INQUISITIVE
DEAR INQUISITIVE: It means she has him wrapped around her finger.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
ANETTE: Say something brilliant — like "goodbye!"

For a personal reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., and include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Abby answers ALL mail.

This Side of The Sun

By R. F. 'Phat' Graettinger

Now, here's an idea to stop drifting sand, Use all the billboards, so closely at hand

Wild ideas and brainstorms come naturally to me. Some have worked out, others are in deep freeze and many are long dead and gone.

THE OTHER DAY I read in The Desert Sun that director C. V. Kane of this district of the State Division of Highways had in mind a plan to install an earthen dyke, 15 feet high, north of that section of U. S. 60-70-99 where sand damage to automobiles has been the greatest.

This is to be an experimental dyke, 50 feet from the highway and a half mile long, to see if it will protect the road when the wind blows — which it usually does.

THIS DYKE, and the area between it and the road, is to be treated with liquid asphalt to anchor the sand grains. It's going to cost about $75,000.

That stretch of 60-70-99 is in what is known as Billboard Alley which extends eastward from Banning and is reputed to have the heaviest concentration of what is politely called "outdoor advertising" of any highway in the state.

THERE SEEMS to be no way to get rid of them so why not make them utilitarian as well as ugly?

Move them all to the stretch in question, knock the stilts out from under them so they rest on the ground, and place them end to end.

Even without the bottom frame work, they'd reach upward more than 15 feet. And with the number of billboards in the area, they'd make much more than a half mile in length.

THE COST wouldn't be near $75,000. Outside the cost of moving them, all there'd be would be the expense of props on this side to keep the playful wind from slapping them down on their faces.

Then there'd be a kaleidoscope of enticements to buy real estate, beer, gasoline, food-stuffs, swim suits, invitations to stay at certain hotels, opportunities for swimming pools and bids to try your luck with the dice at Las Vegas. Besides a variety of other items.

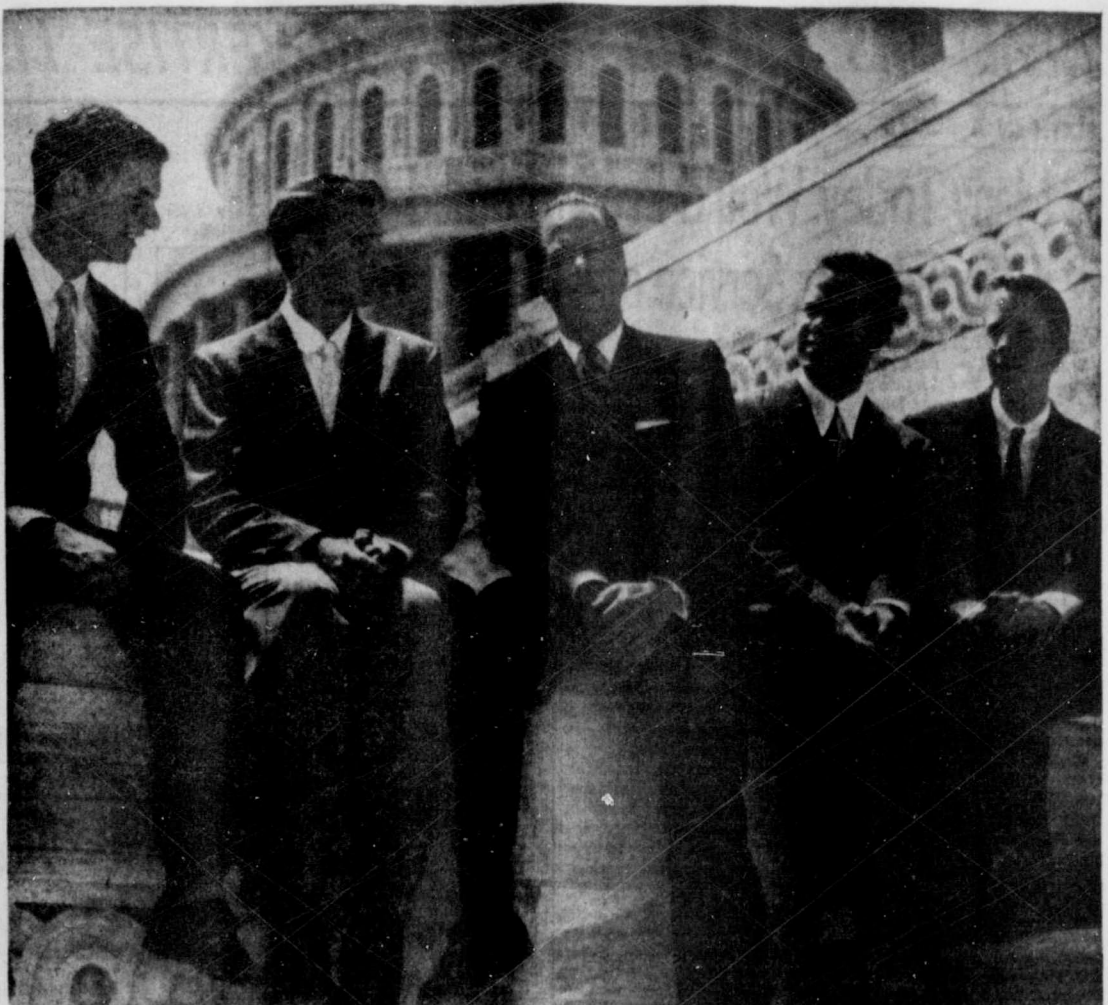

IT COULDN'T BE PRETTY but neither would a black dyke fronted by black sand. But the signs, if properly braced against the gentle zephyrs, would block the sand just as efficiently as the dyke.

And it would be doing a double good deed — guarding automobile windshields and paint-jobs and concentrating all of the scenery — blocking signboards in one spot instead of every few yards as now.

I STILL THINK a tree-planting campaign would turn the trick. Trees and vegetation slow up the wind and when there's no wind, the sand grains surrender to gravity.

Besides, trees would be easier to look at than billboards or a black wall of sand.

Well, anyway, I'm for director Kane and wish him success. But he can't blame a guy for dreaming.

FOUR RESORT AREA BOYS take time out from automobile trip to visit the Capitol. On steps outside the Senate wing with U. S. Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California are (left to right) Ray Baddour, Alex and Jim Marx (sons of Harpo Marx), and Gene Hendershot of Palm Springs.

'31 Knot Burke' Is Leaving Fabled Career

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — That grand old salt, Arleigh Burke, retires as chief of naval operations Aug. 1, leaving behind a fabled career.

"31 Knot Burke" won his name in 1943 while commanding Destroyer Squadron 23 in the Pacific — a post he reached only by a series of verbal depth charges he dropped in Washington when, for a time, it appeared that he might serve out the war at the Naval Gun Factory.

This "Little Beavers" squadron four took part in 22 separate engagements between November, 1943, when it covered the landings on Bougainville, until February of 1944. During that stretch Burke ordered his ships steamed at just below the boiler-breaking point — hence the nickname. The squadron whacked out a Japanese cruiser, nine destroyers, a submarine, 30 zeroes and a small navy of smaller ships.

He moved on to carriers, under Marc Mitscher, flew hosts of missions while holding the rare rank of commodore, and survived the kamikaze bombing of the carriers Enterprise and Bunker Hill during the Okinawa campaign.

Burke was back in the war business during the Korean conflict, commanding Cruiser Division Five. He hangs up his hat after 37 years, and a flock of medals and awards.

They'll be quoting Burkes around the wardrooms for a long time to come.

"Boredom comes from lack of work," he wrote in an open letter to an ensign. "Outline for yourself work to do each day. Make sure that you achieve something in your career each day. Never let a day go by when you don't do something good — not for yourself but for somebody else and, more importantly, for your navy and your country."

In reference to his nickname: "I only know that the enemy has less chance of hitting you at 31 knots or better than he does at slower speeds."

On punctuality: "It's unforgivable to be early — inexcusable to be late." And: "If anybody has a choice between choosing an organization and choosing people, they should choose people and the organization will take care of itself."

"Lots of things money won't buy. Money won't buy the loyalty of a dog nor the loyalty of a wife. . . ."

"When you're trying to get something done don't worry too much about stepping on someone else's toes. Nobody gets his toes stepped on unless he's standing still or sitting down on the job. . . ."

"The only person who had his work done by Friday was Robinson Crusoe. . . ."

"Please don't talk while I'm interrupting."

Asked where the navy would be if Russia threw 300 ICBMs at America, Burke scratched his jaw and said, "At sea, I hope."

A reporter asked him if there would ever be an "ultimate weapon."

"There's no such thing as an ultimate weapon any more than there is an ultimate wife," Burke said. "People have been searching for both for a long, long time. They always find they're not quite perfect."

The navy went atomic, and the Polaris system was perfected, while Burke was at its helm. It gave some of its know-how to friends, too. Charles de Gaulle, for one. Was that just to butter up the crotchety Frenchman, a reporter inquired, and could DeG be fully trusted?

"Are you married?" Burke asked the newsmen. When the reporter nodded the admiral continued. "Well, it's the same. I am too. It's sort of like dealing with a wife. She doesn't always do the things you want her to do. She sort of goes off and has her own mind made up sometimes that she's going to do it her way. And sometimes you know it's wrong, but you don't cut off her allowance and tell her that you don't like that new hat."

"Friends are just that way, too. They always do something sooner or later that you don't like very much. But it doesn't mean that you're no longer friends. You don't strike them off your list. You've got to work toward a common end in order to be friends. But it doesn't mean that your friends will always do exactly as you would like to have them do. They won't."

Burke dominated a big section of the world's biggest office trap, the Pentagon, but it never threw him. "There are a lot of poisoned wells in this desert," he liked to say.

Good fishing, sir, you truly earned your rest.

For Firmness in the Right Give Prayers

By HOLMES ALEXANDER

WASHINGTON — "I need . . . above all, your prayers," said John F. Kennedy in winding up his latest telecast on the latest crisis. This is a departure for JFK. Till recently, he seemed a young executive who might offer God a few words of advice on how to run His world. Nobody made a more princely entrance to the Presidential stage than Kennedy did between January and March. His majesty, his eloquence, his easy way with old friends, his seeming ability to get his hand around all problems, large and small, gave some of us hope that the crazy process of Presidential picking had unaccountably selected a man to the White House born.

As one not guiltless of this heartfelt yearning, I wrote in this column that Lincoln, who knew his limitations and virtually prayed his way through 1861-65, should become Mr. Kennedy's model rather than the bully boys in whose boots he seemed to be trying to strut — Jackson, Wilson, the Roosevelts. Early in 1960, the centennial of Lincoln's emergence from prairie lawyer to President, I had reread the Sandburg biography to let it tell me, if it could, that American greatness might still lurk beneath unpromising political exterior.

There Must Be Corners
So, last Tuesday, when I heard Mr. Kennedy, with something like a break in his voice and an apparent tremor on his lips, ask for prayers, I went to bed and dreamed of waking to a better morning for America. Somewhere in the White House there must be corners where a man, with his country's fate on his heart and mind, might kneel down and pray for "firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right," which are the words of a certain tall man who used to live there.

Mr. Kennedy needs prayers — his own and ours, and how! The President's speech could be called a sword-rattler made with chattering teeth. The latter need not matter if he would only suit action to his words. While the President talked, there was a hijacked American airliner in Havana, and 1,200 prisoners, for whom we are responsible, in Castro's dungeons. With $43 billion this year for military arms and men, and Mr. Kennedy asking for $3.5 billion more, we ought to be mighty enough to go to Cuba. We should recover the stolen plane, release the prisoners, and occupy whatever missile bases are there in the name of the Organization of American States.

British, French Take Action
That would be action. With that sort of policy in being, at the very moment the President talked to the nation and the world, his speech would have meant something more than — "You'll be sorry, Mr. Khrushchev. Wait and see!" With that sort of action, there would have been a discernible improvement for the West in postwar history. A fortnight or so ago, the British quit wringing their hands and sent commands to protect their oil interests in Kuwait. A week or so ago, the French decided not to cut and run from Africans. They resisted and counter-attacked when the upstart Tunisians tried to take the fortifications at Bizerte. What an occasion Mr. Kennedy's world-wide telecast would have afforded for us to go to Cuba and act as the Squire of the Hemisphere ought to act when the riff-raff steals his apples and molests his children.

Mr. Kennedy said with apology that sacrifices would be required. He specified sacrifices only for those called to the colors, and for those who might be asked to pay more for postage stamps and to write off less on expense accounts if Congress should pass some Kennedy measures. But most of the Kennedy bills are not sacrificial. As this is written, the Senate is droning through its billions-for-farmers bill and will next take up billions - for - foreigners. The President plugged for his billions-for-Federal school aid. The administration is sympathetically watching maritime unions ask for frills and auto-making unions ask for caviar.

There is no more action on the home front than on the diplomatic and military fronts. And if Rome burns, every Roman this time — not just the Emperor — will be provided with his fiddle.

Barber Putts To PGA Playoff Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — A "faders" golf course with "honest" greens meant the biggest paycheck of his career for affable Jerry Barber.

Barber, a mite of a player 5 feet 5 inches tall and 135 pounds became the oldest PGA champion ever Monday when he defeated Don January by one stroke, 67 to 68, in an 18-hole playoff on the North Course of Olympia Fields Country Club.

The result, coming because Barber knocked three strokes off par on the last seven holes to overcome a two-stroke deficit, gave the 45-year-old Los Angeles pro, father of five children, his biggest payday, a berth on the Ryder Cup team, and untold dollars from future exhibitions as a champion.

Made For Faders

"This was a faders' golf course," he said. "That's why a lot of your big name players didn't do well. They all hook. I looked at it when I first got here, and hookers can't play well on it. It might have looked like I sliced. Well, I did some, but a lot of them were faders, the kind of shots you need to win on this course."

"Then the greens were honest. They weren't dishonest, like a lot of those we play. They aren't fast or slow, but they putt honest. If it looks like the ball will break to the left, it will break to the left. If it looks like it'll break to the right, it breaks to the right."

Barber's victory was on one of the greatest comebacks of golf. He trailed January by four strokes with three holes to play in the final round and made it up.

Last Hole Decides

January lost the playoff on the last green. He drove into a trap, then hit a trap with his second. But he missed a 10-foot putt for

Villager Called Barber Victory

John A. Connors, 197 Via Lola, predicted to The Desert Sun Monday that Jerry Barber, the mighty mite from Los Angeles, would win the 18-hole playoff with Don January to cap the PGA tourney.

"I've played with both of them," Connors said, terming "both of them good boys."

"But experience is on Jerry's side. Connors added that Barber's steady nerves under pressure would help.

Arroyo Key To Yankee Pitching Prowess, With 20 Save Tally

NEW YORK (UPI)—A slightly portly Yankee named Luis Arroyo is one of the proudest of the front-running New Yorkers.

And rightly so, too, because it was only a year ago that the 33-year-old native of Ponce, P.R., began a remarkable comeback from the obscurity of the International League to glamour boy of the New York Yankee bullpen.

"Luis made a vital contribution to the Yankee pennant victory last season," comments manager Ralph Houk. "And he's been even more important to us this year. The records speak for themselves when they say he's the most effective relief pitcher in baseball."

Makes 20 Saves

Barrel-chested Luis—he stands 5 feet, 8 inches and weighs about 190 pounds—has a 7-3 record and a 1.80 earned run average this season and is credited by Houk with 20 "saves." His sterling relief work is the secret behind Whitey Ford's 18-2 record and 12 straight victories and, in fact, he has been the savior of the staff.

The Yankees were desperate for pitching help last July and were scouring the minor leagues for someone who could provide it. They spotted Arroyo pitching for Jersey City and despite a Newark with a relatively unimpressive 9-7 record and recommended him to Casey Stengel.

It wasn't long before he became one of Casey's favorite topics of conversation.

"They say he don't look much a pitcher," Stengel commented, "but then again they say Yogi a par which would have extended the match.

Barber, also in a trap with his drive, said the match turned on his shot from the sand. "It was 183 yards from the back edge of that trap to the center of the green," he said.

He used a three iron, picked the shot off cleanly, and it stopped 18 feet from the flag. He got down in two easily, for victory.

Soggy Tie May Be Death Knell Of 2nd All-Star

BOSTON (UPI) — The 1-1 rain-soaked tie in 1961's second All-Star Game may have sounded the death knell for the two-year inter-league games program started three years ago.

Everyone, it seems, is against two games a year except the players. They proposed the second game and insisted that he be played each year in order to enrich their pension fund.

But there were indications they were coming around to the thinking of Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick and the club owners that fans will lose interest if two All-Star Games are played each season.

The players voted, 508-34, last spring to continue the two-year program and the player representatives are meeting today to decide whether to go back to the one-a-season game.

"They now have enough money in their pension fund," said Frank Scott, agent for the players. Scott refused to predict what the players would recommend but several of them have changed their minds since last spring and it may be that the unsatisfactory finish of Monday's game might be the factor that will turn the players against the present format.

Actually, no one, especially the 31,851 fans in Fenway Park, liked the final outcome.

Meets British Champ

LONDON (UPI) — Lightweight contender Lennie Mathews of Philadelphia was matched today for a 10-round bout with Britain's Dave Charnley.

Berra don't look much like a ball player."

No Mystery

Arroyo, who got his big league start with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1953, says there's really no mystery to his sudden about face.

"I'm a new pitcher because I have a new pitch," he says. "I keep the hitters guessing and I can usually get my stuff over the plate. There's not much more to pitching than that."

Arroyo's newly developed pitch is a screwball which enables him to handle right-handed hitters who previously "killed" him and sometimes breaks as much as two feet. It's this huge break that sometimes gives Luis control problems but he usually has firm command over his stuff.

"The screwball works two ways for Luis," analyzes Berra. "For one thing, it's a difficult pitch to hit. And for another, the hitter seems to be always looking for it enabling Luis to fool 'em with his fast one or his other curve."

HAPPY CATCH for Karen Sylvester, was her first fish. The happy angler hooked the little catfish in the Midsouth Fishing Rodeo at Memphis.

Stu Miller Baffles AL Hitters, Fans 5

BOSTON (UPI) — Slow-baller Stu Miller made a "joke" of the second All-Star Game although it was no laughing matter for dejected Luis Aparicio.

There was no decision in Monday's rain-called 1-1 tie between the National and American leagues. No official one, that is. But unofficially, Miller won all the bouquets as the hero of the game while Aparicio inherited all the brickbats as the goat.

Miller, the San Francisco reliever who was credited with the first All-Star Game victory of the season on July 11, dealt up his customary assortment of junk during his three inning stint Monday. He served up slow curves, change-ups and what not, fanning five AL hitters, including three—Mickey Mantle, Elston Howard and pinch hitter Roy Sievers—with the potential winning run on base in the ninth.

Miller's performance in a driving rain almost doubled up Roberto Clemente of the Pirates, the NL's leading hitter who started Monday's game in right field.

"Nobody in the league is tougher for me than Miller," Clemente said, when he finally was able to control his laughter. "I can't ever remember ever getting a hit off him. But I sat back laughing at those American League hitters trying to hit him out there."

Aparicio was one of Miller's five strikeout victims but that didn't bother the usually smooth-fielding Chicago shortstop so much. What did was a defensive maneuver by him in the sixth, which came under fire after the game was over.

The National League, trailing 1-0 at the time, had runners on first and second with two out when Eddie Kasko of the Reds rapped a high two-bouncer at Luis. Instead of charging the ball, he waited on it and when it finally came to him it was too late.

Kozlen Rolls 740 Scratch Trio Lead

Morris Kozlen, a knowledgeable man with wood, pulled the pins to lead the Palm Springs Scratch Trio with a 740 series in the last report period.

Six pins behind with a 734 was Chuck Tipp.

High games went to Gary Fishbein, 234, Rick Scarms, 214, Mel Wasserman, Ed Hollister and Kozlen with 212 each, plus tips, 208, and George Sylvester, 201.

Wednesday Juniors' leader was M. Coff with a high series 531 and high game 202. Ronnie Dacanay tallied a 452 series, and K. Elliott a 405.

List Exhibitions

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association today announced they have scheduled two more exhibition games. They meet the Cincinnati Royals in Detroit Oct. 17 and the Syracuse Nats at West Hartford, Conn., Oct. 15.

He had no play at any base, so he had to "eat" the ball and the bases were full.

White Singles

Bill White followed with a run-scoring single, and although Aparicio collared the ball behind second base and prevented a second run from scoring, everyone still was wondering what happened to him on Kasko's chop-belt.

Kimball Ousts Rawls To Top Ladies' Golf

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Young Judy Kimball heads for her home in Iowa today with the diploma in her golf bag.

The professional golfing neophyte won her first tour victory Monday by beating the gal who helped her decide to turn pro. Miss Kimball nabbed the $7,500 American Women's Open golf championship, shooting two strokes better than veteran Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S. C.

"It was Betsy who advised me last year to spend some time with her teacher in Texas," Miss Kimball said. "Since turning pro last November, I have learned a great deal from Betsy."

Miss Kimball put her newly found knowledge to work Monday and held up under pressure to grab the $1,247 first prize.

Miss Rawls put the pressure on her playing partner by firing a three-under-par 35 for the first nine holes of the final round. The pace cut Miss Kimball's lead to two strokes, but the Sioux City, Iowa, native played steady golf over the final nine to finish with a 74 against Miss Rawls' 73. The winner posted a 72-hole score of 295.

Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif., who was only one stroke back after 54 holes, finished third at 300. Barbara Romack, Sacramento, Calif., was fourth at 303. Defending champion Patty Berg, Minneapolis, finished tenth with 308.

NOBODY WON the second 1961 All-Star game, officially, when it was called because of rain at a 1-1 score. But Mickey Mantle, a Yankee bat strongman, made it safely to first in the fourth, as Bill White received Art Mahaffey's throw too late. (UPI Telephoto)

Wind-Marred Run Reset At Salton

SALTON BAY—Rough waters and four collisions combined to cancel all but "D" runabout classes in the scheduled races here last Sunday, with action set this weekend.

In the "D" class, Ronnie Hill, Bellflower; Tom Noller, Newport Beach; and Bob Wills, La Crescenta, qualified for the national United Speedboat Association races in Gunnersville, Ala.

No injuries occurred in the four collisions which marred the weekend attempts.

Paddleboarders Prep Channel Chopper Aug. 14

MANHATTAN BEACH — The paddleboard race from the Isthmus of Catalina Island to Manhattan Beach pier Aug. 20 will feature keener competition lined up for Tom Zahn, 36, of Santa Monica, winner in four out of five previous races across 32 miles of choppy channel waters.

Top competition will come from James Mollica, 21, also from Santa Monica, a scrappy 130-pound paddleboarder who finished a mere 15 minutes behind Zahn last year — the closest second place than Zahn has experienced. Both paddled in 'open' classification, not subject to stringent board regulations of the sponsoring Paddleboard International Association, sponsors of the Sixth International Paddleboard Festival.

Competition for the relatively old Zahn will also come from Mike Doyle, 20, a Los Angeles paddleboarder who has piled up a string of first places in the July 4 Cabrillo Beach 4-mile paddleboard race, and races last year at Huntington Beach, Ocean-side and La Jolla.

'Open' Closed

At the recommendation of Zahn and other paddlers, race officials this year eliminated the "open" classification and have confined it to a "stock" board race. This means all competitors will be in the same race.

The paddleboard now required must be no less than 14 feet long and not lighter than 45 pounds. Race officials this year also have allowed non-wood construction in paddleboards.
